Spect-Act is a two-year project with the goal of developing a network of Theatre of the Oppressed companies in Edinburgh. The techniques of the Theatre of the Oppressed blur the lines between actor and audience and offer a space for dialogue and building knowledge.

Active Inquiry has been working with groups from The Bethany Christian Trust, Shakti Women's Aid and The Alma project to create unique pieces of theatre exploring issues of relevance to the participants.

We have devised, rehearsed and shared work with each other and are now ready to share with the wider public and involve you in the debates and dialogues that we have started together.

Come and join us to see some unique pieces of Forum Theatre, join in with our Live Podcast and enjoy some delicious lunch from the Out of the Blue Café. Most importantly, join us in the search for finding ways forward to challenge oppression and make the world a better place.

For catering reasons it is essential that people book for this event. Please register and book tickets at spectact.eventbrite.co.uk

Please let us know if you have any diet or access requirements and we will do our best to meet these. A crèche will be available but booking is essential. For more information please contact Gavin on gavin@activeinquiry.co.uk or 07714321629
